The Recorder has named Cox Castle & Nicholson to its inaugural list of Leading Northern California Environmental Law Practice Groups.

Cox Castle & Nicholson has one of the top environmental practices in the state, known for its involvement in ground-breaking environmental cleanup litigation. The firm's environmental law practice group, made up of 25 attorneys, has been at the forefront of climate change issues since 2006 and handles environmental, land use and natural resource matters throughout the state.

The full list winners was published in The Recorder on April 9.
